Happy Mother's Day!

Three Little Ladies

Three little ladies
Went strolling one day,
Dressed "just like Mommy"
When she goes away.

With oodles of jewelry
And heels, oh so high
They wobbled and giggled
"Til they caught every eye.

Then nodding politely
"Good morning," said they.
"We thought we'd go strolling:
It's a beautiful day."

So dressed in high fashion
They went on their way,
Three little ladies
Playing "Mommy" today.

GARDEN CLUB NEWS

The Fertile Garden Club met Tue., April 12th with 18 members present. They drove to Country Garden Patch, south of Ventura, for a tour. They visited the Craft Fair first. Hostess Doris Meyer greeted them with a treat and a package of flower seed. The crafts were very beautiful and interesting. Then we went to the Greenhouse and saw thousands of tiny plants growing for us to plant later. From there we went to the Library in Ventura for our business meeting and lunch. Upcoming plant sale to be held Tues. May 3rd at 3 PM at Andy and Pat Oswald's log cabin north of Fertile was discussed. We decided to give a gift certificate at the plant sale and to make a money donation to the Fertile Auction. Danette O'Toole gave a very good "Thought for the day". Ladies took posters to other towns to advertise the plant sale. Fern Midtgaard and Reva Anderson were hostesses and served a delicious lunch. Next meeting will be May 3rd.

KENSETT

THIRTEEN years after the organization of what is known as the civil township of Kensett, or, rather, in 1873, surveyors laid out the town of same name, and those who survive to point the finger of pride upon its rapid and healthy growth to its present prosperity and pretensions, are legion. They were, and are, of sturdy stock—brainy, brawny, religious, fearless, conscientious, conservative—the very essence of all essential components which have so very materially built a foundation still unshaken and unscathed. One William Todd, an Englishman, was the first settler, locating on the east half of the southwest quarter of Section 19, during the year 1860. William S. Todd, the first child born, dates from June 3rd, 1867. Gertine Bertine Savre, daughter of K. E. Savre, died on the 26th of February, 1872, being the first to pass from time to eternity—everlasting bliss.

The original owners of the town plat were James Thompson, C. C. Gilman and J. L. Sherman, the former building the first house about one year before the plat was made. Things ran along in the even tenor of their way, fraught with many vicissitudes, until the year 1875, when Cleophas Bros. opened a general merchandise store and T. Oleson started the first blacksmith shop. 1876 saw Smith Bros. & Co. representing the building material line, while C. D. Mattock introduced the first hardware stock, all of whom enjoyed a liberal patronage, which they zealously guarded. The first postoffice was established in April, 1876, with C. Cleophas as postmaster, in which capacity he served about eighteen years in the most creditable manner. Martin V. Bentley was the pioneer grain merchant, establishing a warehouse in 1875. The following year saw S. Cargill actively engaged in the same line of business. In the spring of 1883 his warehouse was burned to the ground, entailing a loss of $7,000, and along with it Cleophas Bros. suffered a $1,000 loss upon their warehouse and contents. Phoenix like we soon find these two firms, and another, Mr. G. N. Miner, actively engaged in this line, and it is undeniably asserted that more grain was handled here at this time than at any distributing point in this section of the country. This coterie of loyal citizens must have looked with prophetic eye down the dim vista of the future to the present day, recognizing the fertility of the soil, its admirable location and climatic conditions, for the same blood courses through the veins of those who are now making this town a Mecca—"the survival of the fittest." Championing everything which enhances spiritually, educationally, agriculturally, and along the line of aggressive advancement, they point with pride to their achievements, and stand with outstretched arms, supplemented by willing hands and warm hearts, inviting strangers from "over the hills and far away" to cast their lot with them, without any equivocation, separating the chaff from the wheat, as it were, and share with them the profit and pleasure of this progressive march.

Passing down the royal path of life followed by these pioneers in their struggle for supremacy, we find Kensett today

Martin Brozik is proprietor of the City Meat Market. This industry introduces home-made smoked meats as an incentive to an ever-increasing patronage. With able assistants he conducts, with neatness and dispatch, a clever market.

C. O. Savre, one of Kensett's oldest merchants, who is now located in the new brick block on Main street, carries an extensive stock of general merchandise, including a fine line of gent's clothing and furnishings.

Thank You

Thanks to Pastor Kampstra for his visit, the Ladies Aid for their treats, for the phone calls, cards and visits from friends and relatives, the card with all the signatures from the Church of Christ while I was in the hospital this last time.

Keith Sheimo

Thank you for remembering me with cards, food and visits and for your prayers. Thanks to Pastor Kampstr and Joyce for your visit and Church of Christ prayer group. I appreciated it very much.

Romane Lovik

Thank you to all who remembered me with prayers, cards and phone calls while in the hospital and since returning home. A special thanks to Pastor Kampstra for his visit. All was most appreciated.

Frank Sheimo

A special "thank you" to everyone that touched my life during my recent surgery and recovery, with cards, flowers, gifts, phone calls, visits, prayers and love. It sure felt good and very helpful in the healing process - God Bless.

Love, Goldie Felland

Thank you the family members who attended the Funeral of Clarice Leadley, from Cindy Lou, Steve, and Donnie Nelson.

With Sympathy

Our deepest sympathy is extended to Gwen Keough and her family on the death of her father, Glen Cordes, of Mason City, Ia who passed away on March 28, 1994 at the Muse Norris Hospice Inpatient Unit in Mason City.

Word has been received of the death of Blanch (Bakke) Helland of Thompson, Ia. who passed away on March 29, 1994 at the Lake Mills Care Center in Lake Mills, Ia. She was the daughter of the late Tom and Lena Bakke. She is survived by three daughters and one son. Also three brothers, Alvin of Arizona, Ray of Lake Mills and Truman of California. Our deepest sympathy to the family.

Coming Events

There will be a St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Wheels for Life Bike-A-Thon on Saturday May 7 (Raindate Saturday May 14) from 9-12 at the east end of Main Street in Fertile.

Riders are needed for this Bike-A-Thon. Lots of food, prizes and fun. Contact Stacy Suby at 797-2794 or Abbey Almelen at 797-2438 for registrations.

Confirmation Services will be held on Sunday May 15, 1994 at the Fertile Lutheran Church. Members of the class are Nicholas Hanks, Tim Faber, Abbey Almelen, Kelly Knudson, Nicole Midtgaard, Jessica Petersburg, Stephanie Swingen and Stacy Suby.

REMINDER: The Fertile High School graduating class of 1959 will hold its thirty-fifth reunion on July 23 at the Jack of Diamonds in Clear Lake, Ia. The classmates are asked gather at 6:00 p.m. Dinner will be served at 6:30. All former teachers of the class are also invited to attend. Donna Vaage Nelson, Gary Ouverson and Neal Luker are committee members planning the reunion.

School's Out!

Neil L. Kuns

November 19, 1993

A certain day in May, repeated annually in the late 30's and 40's, burned a series of images into my mind. There were different impressions over the years, but some aspects of that day were consistent in their sense of elation. I'm referring to the last day of school for the year.

By that time spring had done its number on the land, and the trees had blossomed and were fully leafed out. The fields of the farmers were planted, fishing season was open, and the rivers and ponds were becoming warm enough to welcome swimmers. Nine months of being stuck in a classroom left even the kids who liked school longing to get out. (Surely the teachers felt the same way!) As the breezes became balmy and the days on school calendar grew fewer that last day of school drew me like a magnet.

The first item of concern was going to school, turning in any books or materials, getting ones report card -- and taking a quick look for those "magic" words, "...and is promoted to the next grade." Then it was good bye. "No more pencils, no more books..."

While the mothers were preparing and setting out the food for the big all school picnic in the William Rhodes Island Park there was time enough to run around and enjoy the sheer elation of freedom and sometimes to have a quick game of "work-up". One year it was held in the vacant lot east of the Church of Christ parsonage. Work-up, in case you've forgotten, was baseball, with about four batters and everyone else in the field. When a batter was "out" he went to right field and stayed there until the next batter failed to get on base. He then "worked up" to center field. There was a continual rotation, although some of us had a very short time batting.

The picnic was a feast spread over as many tables in the park as were needed. There were few formalities, and while some ate with their friends or families most were free to eat where and as much as they pleased. Every person filled his paper plate with potato salad, fried chicken, beans, jello, breads and cakes, vegetables and pies, and fruit salads. There was something to satisfy every palate. It seemed people were less picky in their eating preferences in those days. I don't mean to imply that there were many complaints on any of the food, just that there never seemed to be much left over. When the lemon-aid ran out one could always go to the pump on the north side of the park and refill ones glass with cool pure water. If no glass were available you could still pump up the water while holding the other hand over the mouth of the pump and fill the pump to the top. The hole in the top of the spigot acted like a fountain. Everything was up to date in Fertile!

The afternoon would be filled with a sometimes exciting baseball game with a team from a neighboring town, perhaps Plymouth or Kensett or Joice. I'm sure many people stayed at their work or on their jobs, but it seemed that this was a day of celebration for more than the school children, as townspeople came to enjoy the game at the ball diamond behind the school house.

By the time the day was over everyone was ready to go home. While the parents knew very well what they were going to do all summer, the children had the luxury, at least in their younger years of trying to figure out what they could do during the long leisurely summer. There were always things to do, such as... but that's another story.

FERTILE COMMUNITY CENTER

The board feels that the vandalism at the center should be made known so that parents can check with their children to see if they have any information. On the week-end of April 9th someone shot 6 holes in the windows of the Senior Citizens room. Many many windows have been broken in the other part of the building. The sheriff was called and he will check building more often. Letters on our front sign are removed often. Fires have been started in the old building. That part of the building is not safe for anyone to enter. If your child has a BB or pellet gun, please ask them not to play around the school with it. It is discouraging for us that spend so much time trying to keep the building open to have others destroy it.

GIRLS 4-H NEWS

The Grant Livewirer 4-H Club met April 16th with 13 members present. Roll call was "My Favorite Spring Flower".

Colleen Stewart was our guest speaker. She showed us how to make wicker baskets. On June 23 she is holding a workshop for our members to make a wicker basket.

We voted to buy a tree to donate to the Community Center fund raiser auction. Judy Levad showed us how to put our records together. Hostesses were Rachel and Nicole Midtgaard.

BOYS 4-H NEWS

The Fertile Valley Farmers met on March 19th at the Fertile Community Center with seven members present. President, Isaac Almeliën, called the meeting to order. Discussion held on upcoming bake sale and car wash. Tim and Tom Faber gave presentations. Tim on the proper way to break in a new baseball glove and Tom on the cleaning and care of his trumpet. Refreshments were served by the members. Next meeting is scheduled for April 6th at 1:00 p.m. at the Community Center.
