Every society seems to have its own peculiar rites of passage by which a child or an adolescent goes through the gates and becomes in some sense of the word an adult. In some circles this entails feats of deprivation, danger or daring-do. With other civilizations it may mean some sort of religious, sexual or mystic initiation. When I was a teen-ager this was accomplished getting ones driver's license.

During the "medieval" days of 1946-1947 a drastic change and upheaval occurred in Iowa. The law was modified in 1946, and thereafter one had to be sixteen rather than fifteen by the end of the calendar year in order to qualify for a license to drive. Since my birthday is the 14th of December I slipped in under the wire, even as I had at the beginning of my school days (I was six just before the end of the year in which I started first grade). My friend, Alan Elthon, did not turn fifteen until the following February, which meant he had to wait another year to get his license. That year (because I could drive and he couldn't) he became my best friend and frequent passenger.

The public schools had not yet begun teaching Driver's Education or Driver's Training classes, and the ordeal of that opportunity fell upon the parents of the would-be motorist. The little driver's license law book was available from the state, but the actual behind-the-wheel training was all home-made. Dad taught me to give the engine a little gas as the clutch was let out, but not to slip the clutch. As a mechanic he knew too well the damage that could do to a clutch plate. He also taught me not to over-steer, but to sense changes and to make them smoothly, and to look carefully for other cars before turning or backing into traffic (I forgot that once and backed right into a car driving past on Main Street). His comments about other drivers had taught me not to swing right before making a left-hand turn. All of these were technical or theoretical lessons. What I wanted to do was to drive!

One day on a trip to Hanlontown on the gravel road which heads east from highway number nine, Dad stopped the car and asked me if I would like to take the wheel. Our auto was a maroon 1937 Chevrolet in which Dad had mounted a powerful truck motor. I thought it was hot! As we exchanged places and I climbed behind the wheel I thought I was hot stuff too. We started off slowly and built up the speed to 35 miles per hour -- It felt like we were racing! A little culvert bridge with concrete abutments at each side loomed ahead, and I was anxious about making it between them and steered nervously to the middle of the road. Although my palms were sweating as we finally made it safely into Hanlontown, my first driving experience was a success. So also was my first attempt to get the license. On the day I turned fifteen I passed the written and the driving tests.

Before I had my license I was always worried about getting caught driving, and sat up in the seat as tall as possible. After the license was well in wallet I remember sitting low in the driver's seat, hoping a policeman would think I was too young and would ask me to show him my license. In those days this passport to the adult world was the most precious thing in my possession.

NORMAN S. RYE
1918 - 2003

Norman S. Rye, age 84, of Fertile, died January 24, 2003 at the Muse Norris Hospice Inpatient Unit in Mason City.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 on January 27th at the Fertile Lutheran Church with the Rev. Marlin Snyder officiating. Burial was at Brush Point Cemetery in rural Fertile.

Norman Sydney Rye was born on Sept 21, 1918, to Lewis and Caroline (Jacobson) Rye in Fertile. He grew up and received his education in Fertile. He was in the service of his country for four years with the Army Engineers, spending time in Hawaii, Okinawa and Saipan during World War II.

On Oct. 25, 1945, he was united in marriage to Maxine Fredrickson of Forest City. Norman worked at Winnebago Industries, hauled star route mail for 13 years, worked in maintenance at Oakwood Manor in Clear Lake and was groundskeeper for 14 years at All Vets Golf Course in Clear Lake.

Norman was an active member of Fertile Lutheran Church, serving as a deacon, teaching Sunday school and working on remodeling the church basement. He made the communion railing, and a cross for each Sunday School room. He also served on the Fertile City Council and as a member of the Brush Point Cemetery Board.

Norman passed away at Muse Norris Hospice in Mason City on January 24, 2003, at the age of 84 years.

He is survived by his wife of 57 years, Maxine Rye of Fertile; a daughter, Julie Abendschein and husband, Robert, of Hampton; sons, James and wife, Susan, of Des Moines, and David and wife, Valerie, of Golden, Colorado. Also four grandchildren and two great-granddaughters, and many nieces and nephews and many dear friends.

Norman was preceded in death by his parents, two sisters and three brothers.

Our deepest sympathy to the family.

WALLACE M. JOHNSON
1922 - 2003

Wallace M. Johnson, 80, of Clear Lake, died Jan. 15, 2003 in Clear Lake.

Funeral services were held January 18th at the Fertile Church of Christ with Rev. Curt Gallmeyer and Rev. Dennis Ganz officiating. Burial was in the Clear Lake Cemetery.

Wallace M. Johnson was born on Aug. 14, 1922 in rural Kensett, the son of Merrill and Amanda (Sorenson) Johnson. He attended and received his education in rural schools and also attended Mason City High School.

Wally was a lifelong farmer. He farmed in the Kensett, Manly and Hanlontown areas and moved to a farm north of Clear Lake in 1956, where he lived until the time of his death.

Wally retired from farming in 1981, but continued to help his son, Randy, with the spring and fall field work. He also worked in the lab at the American Crystal Sugar Company in Mason City for several years.

Wally liked to go to the cafe in Fertile every morning, then to the elevator in Hanlontown, where he drank coffee and visited with his many friends.

In 1956, he was united in marriage to Joan Christianson in Graettinger, Iowa and to this union were born three children, Randy, Julie and Jackie.

He was a member of Zion Lutheran Church in Clear Lake.

He was preceded in death by his parents and a sister, Frances Doran.

Our deepest sympathy to the family.

THE WOODEN BOWL

I guarantee you will remember the tale of the Wooden Bowl tomorrow, a week from now, a month from now, a year from now.

A frail old man went to live with his son, daughter-in-law, and four-year old grandson. The old man's hands trembled, his eyesight was blurred, and his step faltered.

The family ate together at the table. But the elderly grandfather's shaky hands and failing sight made eating difficult. Peas rolled off his spoon onto the floor. When he grasped the glass, milk spilled on the tablecloth.

The son and daughter-in-law became irritated with the mess. We must do something about Grandfather, said the son. I've had enough of his spilled milk, noisy eating and food on the floor. So the husband and wife set a small table in the corner. There, Grandfather ate alone while the rest of the family enjoyed dinner. Since Grandfather had broken a dish or two, his food was served in a wooden bowl. Then the family glanced in Grandfather's direction; sometimes he had a tear in his eye as he sat alone. Still, the only words the couple had for him were sharp admonitions when he dropped a fork or spilled food.

The four-year-old watched it all in silence. One evening before supper, the father noticed his son playing with wood scraps on the floor. He asked the child sweetly, "What are you making?" Just as sweetly, the boy responded, "Oh I am making a little bowl for you and Mama to eat your food in when I grow up." The four-year-old smiled and went back to work. The words so struck the parents that they were speechless. Then tears started to stream down their cheeks. Though no word was spoken, both knew what he to be done.

That evening the husband took Grandfather's hand and gently led him back to the family table. For the remainder of his days he ate every meal with the family. And for some reason, neither husband or wife seemed to care any longer when a fork was dropped, milk spilled, or the tablecloth soiled.

On a positive note, I've learned that, no matter what happens, how bad it seems today, life does go on and it will be better tomorrow.

I've learned that you can tell a lot about a person by the way he/she handles three things: a rainy day, lost luggage, and tangled Christmas tree lights. I've learned that, regardless of your relationship with your parents, you'll miss them when they're gone from your life. I've learned that making a living is not the same thing as making a life. I've learned that life sometimes gives you a second chance. I've learned that you shouldn't go through life with a catcher's mitt on both hands. You need to be able to throw something back. I've learned that if you pursue happiness, it will elude you. But, if you focus on your family, your friends, the needs of others, your work and doing the very best you can, happiness will find you. I've learned that whenever I decide something with an open heart, I usually make the right decision. I've learned that when I have pains, I don't have to be one. I've learned that every day, you should reach out and touch someone. People love that human touch--holding hands, a warm hug, or just a friendly pat on the back. I've learned that I still have a lot to learn. I've learned that you should pass this on to everyone you care about. I did. If God brings you to it - He will bring you through it. Author unknown

Dear Friends,

Enclosed please find a check to renew for another year.

You do a great job on keeping everyone informed on what is going on. It was really appreciated because Fertile is still home to me even though I do not live there.

Keep up your good work.

THANK YOU!

Dear friends of the Reminder,

Thank you so much for all the beautiful cards, memorials, gifts and food brought in, and for those helping Norman to get to the car and to the hospital. Thanks to our pastor for his daily visits and prayers. I just couldn't carry on if it weren't for the love of friends and neighbors on my block. Norman passed away on January 24th.

God bless each and every one of you.

ANTHONY WHITE COMPLETES EAGLE SCOUT PROJECT FOR PILOT KNOB STATE PARK

Anthony White of Forest City completed his Eagle Scout Project for Pilot Knob State Park.

Anthony, along with his fellow scouts of Troop 418, his parents, and other family members and friends, reconstructed a trail in the park that was badly eroded and in need of repair.

The project began with bringing in a skid loader owned and operated by Glen Pannkuk and a half load of dirt and filling in the eroded area. Next, steps were dug out and railroad ties were placed and held with pieces of rebar. The trail is 118 feet long and 22 steps in all were constructed. The area was then spread with gravel donated by BMC of Fertile. There were a total of 142 ½ man-hours to complete the project.

Anthony was responsible to plan and lead the workers to complete the project. He also wrote a letter to Hanson Foundation and received funding for his project and met with individual businesses to request donations of materials and supplies.

Anthony is the son of Rod and Sheila White of Forest City and grandson of Jerry Hill, a Fertile native, and his wife Theda. Anthony is also the grandson of Connie and Jim French of Forest City.

COOK'S KORNER

From the 1929 addition Cook Book of the English Lutheran Ladies Aid of Manly Iowa — Mrs. J.V. Mikesch.

MENU TO SERVE 150 PERSONS

- 15 loaves bread
- 250 rolls or biscuits
- 3 twelve pound hams
- 10 quarts cabbage salad
- 5 gallons creamed potatoes
- 15 pounds baked beans
- 12 quarts fruit Jello
- 7 pounds butter
- 6 quarts pickles
- 10 cakes
- 5 pounds coffee (10 eggs for coffee)
- 7 quarts of cream
- 6 pounds loaf sugar
- 5 quarts sweet milk and cream for potatoes.

RECIPE FOR A DAY

Take a little dash of water,
And a little leaven of prayer,
Add a little bit of morning gold,
Dissolved in the morning air.

Add to your meal some merriment,
And to a thought of kith and kin,
And then as your prime ingredient,
A plenty of work thrown in.

But spice it all with the essence of love,
And a little whiff of play,
Let a wise old Book and a glance above,
Complete a well made day.
